

AMERICAN STYLES FOR AMERICANS

Because military styles necessarily prevail in war-ridden Europe many fashion authorities are attempting to foist extreme military styles upon Americans.

"The 'UNITED' is one institution which will continue to create American styles for Americans, regardless of what is going on in Europe.

Instead of freakish clothes we tailor sensible and comfortable garments which will continue to be in good taste and not out of style in a few months.

You men who have ideas of your own, come in and permit us to execute them for you.

Sketches of Little OLD NEW YORK
by Wm. J. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—The monkey party season has opened with a dinner and a dance to the Simian younger set. The idea is to give the monkey and marmosette a status as fashionable companions.

The party was given by Mr. and Mrs. Rowley Downs, who have charge of the Majestic roof and are professional dancers who will occupy a conspicuous place in the tango life next winter. The guest of honor was to have been Mrs. Vernon Castle's dear little pet and companion, but "Tweety" was ill.

There were five other pet monkeys present, however, and perfectly groomed and habited they entered gayly into the merry spirit of the evening. Their very chatter was provocative of conversation. After the dinner the monkeys were taxicabbed home.

The snappy comeback for the barber who confides in you that he is beginning to note gray hairs in your head has been uttered by Jack Hammond, the publicity expert.

When one made the remark to him the other day at Long Beach he replied: "Oh, that's from worrying because I'm not a barber."

There's probably no place in all New York where a young parrot desiring a fluent flow of conversation can advance faster than in Forty-fourth street, near Broadway. With the Lambs and the Alpha Beta Phi Clubs on the block the street becomes an open school of expression.

In this environment Henry Dazion's Panama-bred parrot had a large chance. What he is today he owes to Forty-fourth street. The other day he placed the bird on the window-sill for a try-out of his monologue. The thoroughfare—popularly known as Forty-fourth street—was thronged.

Having called a taxi, jostled Jack Barrymore and commented on the passing crowds, the parrot got personal and was called off. A dozen persons prominent in dramatic circles swear they are afraid to go through the street because of the nasty things the bird says about them.

The estate of Gustav Luders amounted to only $160. Luders was for many years one of the best known musical comedy composers and the recipient for a decade of heavy royalties. He wrote the music for "The Prince of Pilsen," "King Dodo," "The Grand Mogul" and "The Shogun." He was a good friend to many professional people and loaned money to almost anyone who came to him for aid.

The Sunday rains which have been prevalent this season have wiped out a lot of fortunes of concessionaires at Coney Island this summer. When it rains Coney is like a deserted village and the loss is one that can never be made up.

Thousands of city people are now cliff dwelling twenty minutes from Broadway on the Palisades along the Hudson. The camp is opposite Dyckman street in the Yonkers section and but for the timely protest the beautiful stretch would have been abandoned to iconoclastic quarrymen who did their utmost to destroy it. Laws have now been passed for its protection.

A special permit is necessary before a camp may be established, and no camping party may remain longer than four weeks. No tree or shrubbery may be cut down. The campers are modest wage earners who have all the advantages of the more expensive places at a very small price.

Broadway's wine may soon be more like pink lemonade than the "imprisoned laughter of the pleasant girls of France." The champagne is plentiful but war has made a shortage in casks and it may have to be shipped in red wine casks which will give it a pink hue.

TAKE A NAP.

(A Doctor's Advice to the Colonel.)
Do take a nap—a Rip Van Winkle nap.
You need a rest and we don't care a rap.
How long it lasts, because we need one too.
You've barked for years and now it's up to you.
To stop the noise that sets our nerves on edge.
Give us a chance and we'll redeem your pledge.
That you would soon reorganize the world.
And see that Freedom's banners were unfurled.

You've often seemed to be the extra cook.
Who spiced much wholesome broth.
You always took
Each chance to meddle in without regard.
For subject, persons, time or place.
'Tis hard
For you to think a plan can be complete.
Unless you edit it—a strange conceit.
So many men there are with brains enough
To outflank yours. To you this may seem bluff;
To us it is an adamant fact;
You can be spared, so sleep and dream of fact;
Then, when you awake, translate your dream aright.
And life for you and us will be more bright.
We don't forget that you were president.
Of these United States—which little meant.
To us and to the world, that you were then
The leader of our nation's foremost men.

This leadership so tempting proved that you,
Once statesman, seemed to take a spoilsman's view
Of your surroundings ere your terms expired.
Your words and counsel now have lost much weight.
So rest before you meet some sorer fate.
Be sure that still Our Eagle's wings will flap.
Even though you take a Rip Van Winkle nap.
